

Leisure

To keep up with peoples need for leisure and sports activities, engineers need to be innovative and inspirational. M T Associates have enormous experience in many varied projects in this sector ranging from feasibility study to finished buildings.

From inception to successful completion, our careful planning methods, developed alongside the client, together with the integration of structure and services helps to deliver speedy and economic solutions.

Our mission is to improve the quality of building design and construction at every opportunity. We intend to achieve this by being more technically competent, more imaginative, more inquisitive and more practical in our approach. Central to this belief is our commitment to designing sustainable buildings.

We believe that we are equipped to advise the client on the diversity of developments that will be required for the future.
